

Suitability maps are maps that in every point show the degree of suitability for a specific kind of application. Suitability criteria are based on SEAS proprietary soft computing LSP method. Sample suitability maps show suitability for urban development, military use, agriculture, industrial development, business development, etc. SEAS provides full support for development of advanced GIS-based suitability criteria, as well as Internet-based software solutions.

For additional information please contact us at info@seas.com.